

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus for confirming online transactions are disclosed. Preferred embodiments include a web site configured to associate customer and purchase information including an email address corresponding to a user. When a user completes an online transaction, an email confirming the purchase is sent to the user.